GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibbs Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary of Marriage.

A memorable anniversary was celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibbs, of Belmont street, on Thursday evening. Fifty years ago they were joined together in holy matrimony and in commemoration of the event the golden wedding was celebrated. The guests were invited by cards bearing the dates 1847-1897. The visitors came and received a cordial welcome. A bountiful supper had been prepared, which was enjoyed by the guests. After the friends had partaken of this hospitality, they assembled for a more formal greeting. W. H. Griffith presided, and in a few words explained the object of their meeting. He paid a deserved tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs and their children. Mr. E. H. Thomas was called to address those assembled. He made very appropriate and witty remarks, reading the marriage certificate signed fifty years ago. A golden tribute as a mark of esteem and friendship was then presented. In grateful response Mr. Gibbs returned thanks, and spoke in a very appropriate manner of his appreciation of their esteem. Remarks were made by Rev. E. Silivus and W. D. Lewis. The party joined in a beautiful hymn, "When Shall We Meet Again," and the pleasant meeting closed with the Doxology and the benediction.

PLANTS AND SHRUBS DESTROYED.

Hon. John Nealon, Hon. John Kelly, L. A. Roberts, Henry Mang and others on going out to their front yards this morning found the lawns and gardens utterly destroyed. Flowers had been broken from their stems and thrown on the ground, rose bushes were pulled up by the roots and newly planted flower beds and garden trampled under foot so that the work of replanting will be necessary.

Impress upon the cook that she should strive not only to make her dishes easy of digestion and capable of furnishing whatever nutrition may be required, but also to give them the power of pleasing the palate, and not alone the palate, but the eye as well.

A pretty and unusual salad at a green and white luncheon was French peas and Bermuda turnips with mayonnaise dressing. The inside of the turnips was taken out so that the vegetables formed shallow cups. These cups were placed upon lettuce leaves and filled with the peas, which in turn were covered with the dressing.

When cooking vegetables do not entirely cover the kettle. It will be better to let part of the steam escape.

Another suggestion comes regarding the care and nourishing of palms and rubber plants. Save all the cigarette ashes you can obtain and mix them with the soil in the pots, taking care not to hurt or disturb the roots. These ashes will strengthen the roots wonderfully.

An electric attachment for the lighting of lamps is an invention that will be gratefully received. To reach the wicks of most of these lamps with a lighted taper is something that requires dexterity and care. The new invention will light the lamp when a button is touched. The little battery that runs it can be attached to any lamp will last from four to five months, and may be renewed at little expense.

Electricity is now used for preserving eggs. Eggs that have undergone an electrical treatment may be kept for an indefinite time, and it is said that when used they are found to be as good as fresh-laid eggs.

Washing the hands in a little mustard water and then rinsing them well is excellent for cleansing them after handling substances with an unpleasant odor. Knives and cooking vessels may also be readily freed from odor by being treated in like manner.

A very nice relish may be made with speed and will help out a luncheon or supper. Cut a cleaned fish into large pieces and lay them in salt and water for twenty minutes. Then drain them and cover the bottom of an earthen baking dish with a layer of the fish. Sprinkle over the fish a few whole allspice, some pepper corns, a blade of mace, and a dash of cayenne. Nearly fill the dish with layers of fish and spice, and pour over the whole enough good vinegar to cover the fish. Cover the dish with a plate and bake in a very slow oven for three or four hours. The fish bones will be dissolved by the vinegar. This is eaten cold, and will keep some time.

Wormwood boiled in vinegar and applied as hot as can be borne on a sore, or the juice of the wormwood, is the affected member should afterward be rolled in flannel to retain the heat.

TWO HISTORIC SPOTS.

Facts and Traditions About Gardiners and Shelter Islands.
From the New York Times.

Gardiners Island which lies well out to sea, a considerable distance east of Shelter Island, has a great interest for those lovers of salt air and historical tradition who spend their summers on or near the extreme eastern end of Long Island. This is a quiet and fertile spot, about which the general public knows but little. It was bought from the Indians in 1639 by Lion Gardiner, who is said to have been the first Englishman to settle in New York state. The island is still in possession of a member of the Gardiner family, and there is a venerable manor house there, which is rich in historic treasures.

One of the most interesting of the family relics which is still preserved in this old homestead is a silk shawl that was given to one of the Gardiner dames by Captain Kidd. There are also a large number of rare Indian and colonial relics in possession of the family. The resident population of this island now numbers about 100 persons, who are employed in the care of the estate and in stock raising and gardening.

George Fox, the founder of the order of Quakers in this country, is said to have preached to the Indians from the steps of the old Sylvester mansion on Shelter Island, and the island took its name from the fact that the large-headed lord of the manor, Nathaniel Sylvester, although not a Quaker himself, sheltered the people of that order when they were driven out of New England. The present mansion occupies almost the site of the original one, and is over a century old. There is a box tree planted by the original settler which is still flourishing. For the original mansion built was shipped from Holland, as well as sculptural tile for the wainscoting and chimney places. Some of this old tile is still shown. It is an interesting fact, handed down by local historians, that Mr. Sylvester's rent for this fertile island was one lamb a year, "should the same be demanded on the first of May."
